“Bobbie and I grew up together. She and I are cousins and were quite close as children, but not in recent years. The family was close and I often looked forward to visiting her and her family in Holden. The big event was exchanging gifts at Christmas. I went away to the service and graduate school and she got married. As a result we sort of lived in different worlds for many years. After high school I don't know that I saw her but once, at Uncle Keith's funeral. To her sons and family I offer my sincere condolences.

“Thinking of you and praying you'll find strength in the knowledge that your loved one is resting in God's care. May your memories bring you comfort and peace. Bobby was a special friend and I cherish the visit we shared at the 50th class reunion last fall.

“Barb--I will miss you greatly. We were like joined at the hip for years. We were family. You was aunt and grandma to my kids. We always knew what each other wanted. You told me that you wanted no visitation or funeral. I can't go to the visitation because I need to honor your wishes. My love will be there for you--always.

“ I always loved Barbara's witty comments, funny little giggle and her big smile. We had some good times and laughs when we were together during our childhood years. May many happy memories and peace be with her family and friends. Janet Sturgis Bruns and Family

“ While living on Market St., Barb, or Bobbie, as she was known then, lived just in back of our house. Our back yards were seperated by a small alleyway. I was awakened every morning by her liltling voice calling my name. Barb was as tough as any of the boys around, and proved it when we played King of the Hill on the root cellar of one of our neighbors. We played "cowboys" all day, and our scenarios were as well thought out as any Hollywood script, that was her doing. We had fun together, and she was my best friend. I moved a street further west, and my own horse took me a little further away from our games. We lost the closeness we once had, but she was always my friend. I still think about those days across the alley, I will miss you Bobbie.
