“ I do send my deepest condolences to Erick Troys beautiful family. I know it is a mighty pain to lose a parent, no matter what your history with them has been. It's a difficult thing for others to even begin to fathom. The love you have for them is unexplainable and so necessary, it is certainly not a thing that you ever need to defend. I know as a father that Erick loved you all so very much. It must have been a confusing and confounding thing to deal with at times. I can only imagine. Just remember to live in today and the future and not to spend too much time trying to make sense of the past. It's done, try to move forward, you are going to do well.

I do know that his life was blessed because of you all. Everyone of you meant so very much to him. He was another infamous Troy, who was terrible at saying the things that needed to be heard...but, I saw the great love he did have for you all. I think it actually kept him going for many years. He so wanted to recover to make it there in May. His body unfortunately could not take any more and it did finally succumb to the years that he didn't live with the regard that is required to take care of ourselves.

I just want to say I am truly sorry for your loss and that I love you all very much. Erick has been so proud of you all these past few years. You've grown and worked to become something very awesome. I thank God for the favor that has come to you in so many ways from Aunt Nancy, to your Grandpa blessing you so, investing in your futures. Be thankful and respectful. You are wonderful human beings and I believe that great things are ahead for you all. xoxoxoxo Love, Aunt Kim
