“ I remember going to Uncle Johnny and Aunt Betty's house when I was younger and he had like 6 televisions. Each of them was on a different football game and each of them had that picture in picture box on each one with another football game. He kept them all muted unless he saw some action happening. Then that television would have sound and he would watch it and mute it once again. LOL I sat there trying to watch all of them. Will miss you Uncle Johnny.
