“ Of all the men in the '70s ballpark crowd, Sid was one of the most likely to encourage those of us who weren't quite as talented as the others, and to hand out pointers and try to give us confidence so we could improve. I remember him swinging a ball around on a rope to help us with our timing so we could hit better. He always had time to share his knowhow to help others. He was such a kind and gentle man.

“ The first time I met Pa--more than 30 years ago--I thought I was seeing Santa Claus in Holden, Mo. I am Cindy's sister-in-law, Rosie, and I loved my Santa Claus immensely. When I graduated from Anthem College in December, 2014, Pa was there to see me "walk". No one knew until they got to the ceremony that I had made valedictorian. Pa and Ma were so very proud of me. But the one special memory from that night is that all of the little children who were attending the graduation of their parents or other family members believed that Santa had taken time out of his busy schedule to come to their graduation. I was working with a women at Cerner who was also graduating that night. Her daughter was 3 years old and after they left the graduation, her daughter told her "Momma, wasn't it so nice of Santa to take time out of his busy schedule at this time of the year to come to your graduation". I will never forget you, Pa. It is wonderful to share a birth date with you. I will always be your "Rosebud" and you will always be my Santa Claus. Love never dies--it just grows stronger as years pass.
Love always and forever,
Rosie
